

Day 5 – “The Sixth Sense”

The goal of today is that by giving the workshop, students have their first (or one of their first) experience with facilitating a group and – almost as a Trojan horse – also provide each other with necessary information and skills about how to effectively facilitate a group.